

Siebecker Named Nevada Military Youth of the Year

Submitted by NAS Fallon Navy Life

Tyler Siebecker from Naval Air Station Fallon Teen Center was named the Nevada State Military Youth of the Year Winner at the recent competition held in Las Vegas March 15-16. Tyler will be representing Nevada at the Pacific Regional competition in May.

Youth of the Year has been Boys & Girls Clubs of America's premier recognition program, celebrating Club members' extraordinary achievements. Each year, one exceptional Military Club member is selected to be the Military National Youth of the Year.

Tyler, as Youth Person of the Year, will serve as the Boys & Girls Club youth ambassador, giving a strong voice to all our nation's young people.

Through a series of local, state, and regional events, five regional teen finalists will emerge to represent Military Youth Centers throughout the nation. The National Military Youth of the Year winner will then advance to the National Youth of the Year event.

Good luck, Tyler! Fallon is so proud of you.

Captain's Log – Specks, Bears, and Daring Greatly

I really love the piece from Teddy Roosevelt that's been bandied about on the internet quite liberally over the past few years...

"It is not the critic who counts: not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood, who strives valiantly, who errs and comes up short again and again, because there is no effort without error or shortcoming, but who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, who spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at the best, knows, in the end, the triumph of high achievement, and who, at the worst, if he fails, at least he fails while daring greatly so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who knew neither victory nor defeat."

I think I quoted it early on in one of the Captain's Logs as we were flailing around trying to figure out what and how we were doing this thing called local journalism. It has served us well as a reminder that what we are doing matters, and how we do it – with a deep sense of responsibility, humility, and transparency, really is the key to making it work.

There have been some slings and arrows this past week – back-to-back and somewhat relentless, pushing on us about stories we're doing and stories we aren't doing. More likely than not, if we aren't covering something, it's because we don't know about it, so we appreciate the heads up when we get it.

Sometimes, we get a story lead, and in the course of our investigation, we find that what was presented wasn't the whole story; when we dig and ask and dig and push really hard to get public information, we find a completely different story altogether. We are really glad that we have learned to slow down a bit and take our time, and keep digging when we don't get all the answers. We used to be a lot more trusting and would take it as truth when someone told us, "That's all there is."

It has been a sad lesson for us, and one we haven't wanted to face, that people we looked to as unquestionable have turned out, in fact, to be just people—normal people with normal weaknesses. Which means we have learned to not take things at face value. We're all just doing the best we can, and sometimes our best is a little short.

We are grateful for the opportunity to tell the stories of this community. As trite as it is "to shine a light in dark places." Sometimes, when we look in with our flashlight or bring in a massive shop light, there is only a speck of dust in the corner.

Sometimes, it is a bear, and it's our job to tell the community to run.

But the most important thing that's come of this for me is, we have never, and we will never tell or not tell stories "to sell papers." We are in the information business. The business of democracy. Our mission in life is to provide the information a community needs to function and function well.

While I would love to drive a beautiful red Cadillac one day, this local community newspaper is not how I will make that happen. This project was never about the money, as our dedicated, poorly paid team will tell you. This is about strengthening our bond as a community. Our commitment to this social contract that holds us together in Churchill County.

So, while we keep digging, know that we will always listen, we are grateful for ALL the feedback, and we will be right here...

...Keeping you Posted.

Obituaries Bill Goings

March 18, 1935 - March 14, 2024

Bill was born March 18, 1935, in Helena, Arkansas, to Felix and Katie Lou Goings. When he was 14 years old, the family moved to Pacoima, California, where he attended San Fernando High School and met his future wife, Shari Aytes. At San Fernando High School, Bill was a standout athlete competing in football and baseball. His senior year, he played for the Los Angeles City Championship in the Los Angeles Coliseum, which was one of his proudest moments. After graduating from high school, he joined the Air Force, where he continued to play football while stationed in England.

In 1956, Bill and Shari were married and eventually settled in Reno until he finished his Air Force career. In 1966, Bill and Shari settled in Fallon with their three children. Bill became one of the Greenwave's biggest fans, following the football, wrestling, and basketball teams all over the state to cheer them on.

Bill had many hobbies and was good at almost anything he set his mind to, including golf, team roping, trap shooting, and slow-pitch softball with the Deal & Miller team.

Bill started Oasis Heating and Air Conditioning in 1978 and passed it down to his sons upon retirement. After he retired, he loved to fish with a long-time friend of 70 years, Earl Dunn.

Bill is survived by Shari, his wife of 67 years, sons Jeff (Karen), Robb (Stephanie), and daughter Shelley (Jeff), grandsons Chad, Alex, Sam, Matt, Jay, and granddaughters Whitney, Kaitlin, Lauren, Shelby, and five great-grandchildren.

The family would like to thank Vidal De La Cruz for his companionship over the last four years, Summer Shuey for taking care of "business" for the last 25 years, and the Banner Hospital staff for their care and kindness.

Per Bill's request, there will be a private family service only.

Ernest Budd Williams

December 5, 1933 - March 15, 2024

Ernest Budd Williams was born in Fallon on December 5, 1933, to William Otto Williams and Lena Louise Capucci. He was the oldest of three children and was named after both his grandfathers – Ernesto Capucci, who immigrated from Italy alone at age 13, and George Budd Williams. Because Ernie's father was an equipment operator, the family lived in several small mining towns around Nevada and Utah before returning to Fallon. At age 17, he was deemed responsible enough to drive the school bus for the Sheckler district, something many older teens did in those days.

Following graduation from Churchill County High School in 1951, he moved to Hawthorne for a short time before enlisting in the U.S. Army. He served a peaceful tour in Germany from 1954 to 1956 as part of the World War II occupation forces. He returned and settled in Fallon, marrying Arlen LaBounty of Hawthorne and establishing a home. They welcomed a daughter, Kristen, in 1959, and enjoyed many outdoor activities in the area, like 4-wheeling and camping.

Ernie began working at Anderson Ford Sales in the 1950s and enjoyed a 40-year career with the Ford dealership as it evolved into Fallon Ford. He was the parts manager for many years and, at times, the service manager. He enjoyed helping his community and was an early member of the Churchill County Search and Rescue and the CB Club.

He married his second wife, Suella, in 1979 and welcomed three stepchildren, Christy, Aimee, and Justin, into his home. He raised the kids like they were his own and led a solid Christian home. He was a member of the Christian Life Center church for many years.

Ernie was not idle. He enjoyed doing things. His most common saying was "You're not working hard enough," which was his answer to boredom. Over the years, he enjoyed many hobbies, like gardening, woodworking, and repairing audio-visual equipment for the school district, but his favorite hobby was trains. Ernie was fascinated with trains from a very young age, encouraged by his father.

Following his retirement, Ernie worked as a handyman for the church and enjoyed his time as a "house husband" while his wife was still working. He and Sue enjoyed traveling in their camp trailer and visiting the West, including a trip to Hawaii.

Ernie is survived by his wife of 45 years Sue, children Kris (David) Lahti, Christy (Stan) Lattin, Aimee (Steve) Schmidt, and Justin (Marcy) McDonald; sisters Mary Lou Cress and Jesse Reeves; grandchildren Natalie (Andrew) Clifton, Owen Ernest Lattin, Kasey Lattin, Adam McDonald, Matthew McDonald, and Scott Schmidt; and great-grandchildren Joel Zumwalt, and Leah and Elijah Clifton. Ernie was preceded in death by his first wife, Arlen, and grandson, Barry Zumwalt.

The service for Ernie will be held Saturday, March 30 at 11 a.m. at Christian Life Center, 1435 Kaiser Street in Fallon. A celebration of life will follow in the church fellowship hall. Services will also be live-streamed at fallonclc. org. In lieu of flowers, Ernie requested donations be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Toni K. Grondin

April 14, 1952 - March 20, 2024

Toni K. Grondin passed away peacefully in her sleep with her husband by her side at 7:06 p.m., March 20, 2024. She fought the good fight for six months following several lifethreatening illnesses but eventually succumbed to liver disease. Toni was born on April 14, 1952, in a small town somewhere in Minnesota. Growing up, Toni did not know her real identity or who all her siblings were (5 total) until sometime after graduation from high school in Kalama, Washington. After two unsuccessful marriages, Toni set off on her own, eventually moving to Sparks, NV, where she found new beginnings and new friends. Working as a bartender at several local bars in the Reno and Sparks area, Toni always greeted one and all with a warm welcome and a beautiful smile on her face. (Who says you can't find love in a bar...it worked fine for the Grondins!)

In 2011, Toni suggested buying a house and moving to Fallon, where her husband grew up and they had a family. It was the right place to live at the right time in their lives. After several years of being friendly, open, and outgoing whenever encountering a friend or stranger in the local stores or anywhere she went, Toni wanted to get a job working with the public again. She went to work as a part-time deli clerk making salads at Safeway for five years, ending in 2022. A job she really loved doing until her health started to decline.

Toni is survived by her husband of 35 years, Richard A. Grondin, a son from her first marriage, Brooks (Amy) Chadderton, of Renton, Washington, and a brother, Steven R. (Michaelene) Thomas, of Vancouver, Washington.

A celebration of Toni's life will be held at the Fallon Theatre on Saturday, June 22, from 2 p.m. until about 5 p.m. All are welcome to say a few kind words, sing along, dance or just join in the fellowship with the family and friends of Toni K Grondin.

Events Free Museum Spring Lecture Series

Staff Report

The Churchill County Museum's 2024 Spring Lecture Series "Nevada Springs are ..." began Tuesday, March 26, and will continue each Tuesday evening through April 16.

The first presentation, "Nevada Springs are ... Hot" premiered with Dr. Brian Hedlund, spoke on "The Real Thermophiles of Great Boiling Spring." This School of Life Sciences Distinguished Professor at UNLV discussed his nearly 20 years of research studying 'microbial dark matter,' the extreme heat-loving microorganisms that thrive in near-boiling hot springs.

On Tuesday, April 2, at 6:30 p.m., documentary filmmaker Gwendolyn Clancy will present "Nevada Springs are ... Cold, Sandy, and Rocky." She will introduce her short film "Pony Express: Living the Ride," as many of the Pony Express stops are found near the scattered springs extending across Nevada. This night will conclude with additional guest speakers from the Nevada Chapter of the National Pony Express Association.

Tuesday, April 9, at 6:30 p.m., "Nevada Springs are ... for the birds" will feature Bethany Chagnon, Deputy Refuge Manager/Biologist at the Stillwater National Wildlife Refuge Complex. Spring is the best time to get out and learn more about the wildlife and wild places we can find in our backyards. Spring in Nevada is also great for visiting your National Wildlife Refuge lands.

On Tuesday, April 16, at 6:30 p.m., the "Nevada Springs are ... all about the weather" the concluding speaker will be Dr. Thomas Albright, Associate Professor Department of Geography and Nevada State Climatologist (Interim) at UNR. Dr. Albright's research and teachings at UNR focus on the seasonal interplay of weather and climate with ecosystems and environmental sustainability. His work has taken him to 18 countries. most recently as a Fulbright visiting professor in Managua, Nicaragua.

The series will take place at the museum, located at 1050 S. Maine Street in Fallon.

Local Government Churchill County Recognizes Employees for Years of Service

Staff Report

During the March 20 Churchill County Commission meeting, 11 employees were recognized for their years of service to this community.

Two long-serving retiring employees, Human Resources Director Geof Stark and Building Official Marie Henson, were honored for their combined 49 years of service to the community with gifts and remarks from County Manager Jim Barbee. Stark's final day with the county was March 23, while Henson will leave in May. County staff had the opportunity to thank them both at a reception held in their honor later that evening.

Raeburn Sottile, Curator at the Churchill County Museum, was recognized by the Commissioners for his outstanding work designing and assembling the branding iron display at the Rafter 3C Arena in time for a special dedication event on February 16, 2024.

The following employees were honored for their tenure of service to the county: Five years of service:

Leticia Orozco-Padilla, District Attorney's Office Raeburn Sottile, Museum

Marilyn Moore, Museum Elizabeth Webb, Community Activities/Parks & Recreation

15 years of service: Denise Mondhink-Felton, Assessor

20 years of service: Donna Cossette, Museum Paul Loop, Sheriff's Office

25 years of service:

Arthur Mallory, District Attorney Richard Hickox, Sheriff

Each quarter, the Commissioners present plaques and lapel pins to county employees for every five years of service to our local community. The next employee recognition event will be at the second Commissioners' meeting in June 2024.

The Karma Box Project

The Karma Box is a simple concept. If it's empty, fill it. If you need it, it's yours.

It's a community initiative that allows people to give non-perishable food, hygiene products, toiletries, and other useful items to those in need. Please no home-baked goods or perishable items. These boxes are in the sun all day, and these items will go bad quickly and they will attract bugs and ants. Absolutely no medications.

How does it work? Karma boxes are filled with goods by anyone who wants to lend a helping hand to those in need. If you see a Karma Box, go ahead and look inside. You will most likely see snacks, bottled water, boxes of crackers, bags of dried beans, bags of nuts, or a cup of soups. At the bottom, toiletries and hygiene products can be found or placed.

In 2018, Grant Denton founded the innovative Karma Box Project, which installed 60 donation boxes across Northern Nevada. In January 2021, the Fallon Chamber of Commerce had the first one installed in Fallon at their location. This was a group effort through the Churchill County Social Services, Churchill Community Coalition, and the Fallon Chamber of Commerce. The coalition then worked with volunteers to provide the funding, building, and painting of a few boxes to have others installed around town.

There is one scheduled to be installed at the Churchill County Sheriff's Office. One was placed at the Epworth United Methodist Church/ Wolf Center. Unfortunately, this one has disappeared. We are looking into having a fundraiser to have a couple made to be placed throughout our community. If you are a business that would like to sponsor and have one at your location, please let us know. You can email the Chamber of Commerce Executive Director, Lucy Carnahan, at lcarnahan@fallonchamber.com.

Elections

Ingram Running for Justice of the Peace

By Rachel Dahl

Brenda Ingram has thrown her hat in the ring to challenge incumbent Judge Ben Trotter for a six-year term serving as Justice of the Peace.

Ingram is a native Nevadan, born and raised in Yerington, and has lived in Fallon and worked for Churchill County for the past 34 years, making her the most senior employee of the county. She worked for the Justice Court for 18 years, serving as the Chief Court Clerk and, for the past 15 years, serving as the Director of Court Services.

"During my 18 years in the Justice Court, I worked diligently in every capacity, from Civil Clerk to Misdemeanor Clerk, Felony Clerk, and ultimately as the Chief Court Clerk for 14 years. In this leadership role, I successfully managed the daily operations of the court, overseeing budget preparation and management, grant writing and administration, as well as formulating policies and procedures. My responsibilities also included the supervision of staff, ensuring a well-functioning and efficient court," she said.

Appointed as the Director of Court Services in 2009, Ingram took the helm of the new department established to address jail overcrowding and improve the criminal justice system's overall efficiency and costeffectiveness.

"Within just 15 months, my department received national recognition from the National Association of Counties for its effectiveness and innovation, reflecting our success in enhancing county government and the court system."

The Churchill County Board of Commissioners appointed Ingram to represent Churchill County on the Nevada Local Justice Reinvestment Coordinating Council. This council, comprised of one representative from each county in Nevada, was created to make recommendations to the Nevada Sentencing Commission. She has also achieved certification as a Pretrial Services Professional with Honors from the National Association of Pretrial Services Agencies.

"I believe I am the best candidate because I think the community and our justice system deserves a judge that is far more selective about who they are letting out of jail on their own recognizance than the current Justice of the Peace is. I will be more focused on community safety when it comes to releasing arrestees. Our local Law Enforcement does a great job solving crimes and making arrests, but those arrested are getting released from jail before the ink is dry on the officer's report, even when they are a high risk to our community. It's not right, it's not safe, and no one in Fallon wants that nationwide trend happening here," Ingram said.

Explaining the evidence-based risk assessment tool that the Nevada Supreme Court has mandated, Ingram said it is an accurate predictor of whether a defendant will re-offend or fail to appear for court if released. "My department interviews inmates to get pertinent information, runs their criminal histories, verifies their information through references, and then completes the risk assessment. This risk assessment is then provided to the Justice of the Peace. At their initial hearing, high-risk arrestees are often released shortly after their arrest. They then must be supervised and monitored with most of them violating the terms of their release, and re-arrested, only to go back in front of the current Justice of the Peace, often to be released yet again. It is absolutely a revolving door."

Ingram is passionate about bringing her knowledge and experience of the criminal justice field back to the Justice Court.

"Over the years I have developed excellent working relationships with other department heads within the county, as well as a vast network of colleagues throughout the state. If elected as your Justice of the Peace, I pledge to bring a fresh, well-rounded, open-minded, and fair approach to the position. I believe that my track record demonstrates my commitment to our community and my ability to make a positive impact on the justice system."

Ingram has a website where voters can get more in-depth information brandingramforjp.com and she can be contacted at brenda@brendaingramforjp.com, she faces current Justice of the Peace Judge Ben Trotter and Dr. Stuart Richardson in the Primary election on June 11.

Astronaut Loren Shriver Inspires Logos Students

By Dan Slentz

On March 1, renowned astronaut Loren Shriver visited Logos Christian Academy, captivating students and staff alike with his tales of space exploration and inspiring words of encouragement. Shriver, a veteran of three Space Shuttle missions and a former NASA astronaut, visited the academy as part of its ongoing efforts to inspire students toward careers in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM).

The event commenced with a warm welcome from the school administration, highlighting Shriver's visit's significance in igniting the young learners' imaginations. As Shriver took the stage, an air of anticipation filled the chapel. With a mix of humility and enthusiasm, he shared anecdotes from his time in space, recounting the challenges and triumphs of his missions aboard the Space Shuttle.

Students listened in rapt attention as Shriver described the aweinspiring experience of witnessing the Earth from the vantage point of outer space. He spoke passionately about the importance of curiosity, perseverance, and teamwork in achieving one's dreams, encouraging the students to pursue their aspirations with dedication and resilience.

"I was once like you, growing up in a small farm town in rural Iowa, dreaming of reaching for the stars," Shriver remarked, his words resonating with the aspiring young minds before him. "Remember, no dream is too big, and no challenge is insurmountable. With hard work and determination, you can achieve anything you set your mind to."

Following his address, Shriver engaged in a lively question-and-answer session. He delighted the students with his insights into life in space and offered valuable advice on pursuing careers in aerospace and related fields. His visit left an indelible mark on the students, instilling a newfound sense of wonder and ambition.

Headmaster Jennifer Thomas expressed her gratitude to Shriver for his inspiring visit, emphasizing its profound impact on the school community. "Having someone of Loren Shriver's caliber share his experiences with our students is truly invaluable," she remarked. "His visit has ignited a passion for exploration and discovery that will undoubtedly guide our students towards bright futures."

As the event concluded, students lined up eagerly for the opportunity to meet Shriver personally, eager to shake hands with a true space exploration hero. For Logos Christian Academy, Shriver's visit served as a beacon of inspiration, reminding students that the sky is not the limit – it's just the beginning of their journey toward achieving their dreams.

Oasis Bighorn Bulletin

By Angela Viera, with photos courtesy of Oasis Academy

Senior Spotlight: Sarah Baker

Senior Sarah Baker has been at Oasis Academy for four years. She is reflective of that time and the memories she has made.

"I've had a fun time here. I started my freshman year and I enjoy it because it feels like you can get to know everybody quickly with fewer people," said Baker.

Her favorite memories are from the dress-up days during spirit weeks.

"My favorite memories from Oasis are all of the spirit week dress-up days," she said. "I thought it was very funny and creative to see what all the students and staff came up with. I loved the anticipation, reading what the themes for the week were, and wondering how people would show up to school on those days."

Along with favorite memories. She has a favorite class and a teacher she'd like to thank.

"I enjoyed having Mr. Eric Grimes as a teacher for my freshman, sophomore, and junior years," she said. "He makes class very entertaining, and all of the projects we did in his class were very enjoyable."

Mr. Grimes' class also helped her broaden her perspective on the world.

"He made me have to think about the world on a bigger scale rather than me focusing on the world in my little bubble, and I appreciate that. We had great thoughtful discussions," Baker said.

Baker will graduate in May with an associate of arts degree from Western Nevada College and her high school diploma. She then plans to attend Belmont University in Nashville, Tennessee. She will study journalism and work towards a career in music journalism.

Her advice for future students is to not be afraid to ask for help.

"My advice for future students is to talk to your teachers when you need help with assignments and situations. They will gladly help you if you do so," she said.

Oasis Offerings Food Pantry Receives $1,000 Grant

The Safeway Foundation awarded Oasis Offerings Food Pantry with a $1,000 grant. The Foundation's mission is dedicated to bettering the lives of people in our neighborhoods.

The funds will be used to purchase fresh fruits, vegetables, bread, dairy products, cleaning supplies, and hygiene items for the pantry.

"We are immensely grateful to the Safeway Foundation for their generous grant. Their contribution will enable us to purchase essential items, ensuring that we can continue to meet the needs of those who rely on our services," said Shelley Kelly, Oasis Counselor and Food Pantry. "This support, combined with our partnership with the Food Bank of Northern Nevada, strengthens our ability to make a meaningful difference in the lives of our community members," she said.

Last year, Offerings served over 200 families and distributed over 22,000 pounds of food. This year, the pantry is on track to serve more families and distribute even more food.

"Last school year, Oasis Offerings Food Pantry served over 1,300 people. The support from the Safeway Foundation comes at a crucial time as Oasis Offerings Food Pantry strives to meet the increasing need for food supplementation and expand our reach to those in need," said Kelly.

Numa (left): Fifth-grade students gathered in the cafeteria for a presentation from Churchill County Middle School band, choir, administration, and staff. Students learned about electives offered at CCMS, signing up for classes, and the Blended Learning Community. Principal Wickware and office staff will go to fifth-grade classrooms in the coming weeks to start helping students sign up for their sixth-grade classes. There will be a field trip to CCMS in May and an open house event before school starts so they can find their classrooms. Students were sent home with information regarding signing up for weeks. If families have questions regarding this process, they can contact Milana Laftin at CCMS by calling 775-423-7701 or emailing lattinm@ churchillcsd.com.

ECB (right): Reading Specialist Linda Rasmussen and Librarian Jennifer Sanchez created a March Madness Reading Tournament. Sanchez made the bracket bulletin board by the library. Rasmussen chose the books for the brackets, and teachers read the books with their students each week, with the students placing their votes. The competition is nearing an end, and only four books are in the running. Second-grade classes will vote between "Pete the Cat" and "How to Drive Your Sister Crazy," and third-grade classes will vote between "Bad Kitty School Daze" and "There Was an Old Mermaid Who Swallowed a Shark."

LES (not pictured): Students in Stacey Manning's first-grade class spent last week learning about turtles and tortoises during their science unit. The students then wrote a realistic fiction story about a green sea turtle. They had to include facts they learned and make a clay flower pot bottom turtle to match. "They did a really great job on their writing. I am so proud of them. They have come so far this year," Manning said.

"Shark Heart: a Love Story" by Emíly Habeck

Readers can be creatures of habit. We tend to gravitate toward the same types of books repeatedly, possibly spreading the love between a genre or two that "speak" to us. I have a pretty broad scope for my preferred genres – I love romance, thrillers, contemporary fiction, historical fiction, and more – but "Shark Heart: A Love Story" by Emily Habeck refuses to be forced into any category. It is one of the strangest stories I have ever read, but it is also one of the most beautiful, heartfelt stories I have ever read and one of the best books I have read all year. So, all I'm saying is keep an open mind while I tell you about this beautifully written debut novel about marriage, motherhood, metamorphosis, and letting go.

Lewis and Wren's first year of marriage will also be their last. Within a few weeks of their wedding, after noticing some strange symptoms, Lewis is diagnosed with a rare condition. Doctors tell Lewis that he will retain most of his consciousness, memories, and intellect – but his physical body will gradually turn into a great white shark. As he develops the features and impulses of an apex predator, his complicated artist's heart struggles to make peace with the things that will never come to be. At first, Wren tries to find a way for them to be together even after the changes are complete – but a glimpse of Lewis's new carnivorous nature re-activates some long-lost memories for Wren. The story then goes back and forth between Wren's turbulent childhood on a houseboat in Oklahoma, her time with her college ex-girlfriend, and her strange new friendship with a pregnant woman with twin birds. We also get the backstory of Wren's mother, Angela – a teenager pregnant and in an abusive relationship, who eventually faces a diagnosis of her own. All of the grief and loss in Wren's life eventually come to a head, forcing Wren to make an impossible choice.

I warned you that it was different, but "Shark Heart: A Love Story" is unforgettable. This allegory is about love, loss, change, letting go, moving on, and finding joy even in grief. Honestly, Habeck took a big risk on this novel and I can confidently tell you that it paid off. I will be thinking about this beautifully written novel for a very long time. Please step out of your reading comfort zone this week and read "Shark Heart," I desperately need someone to talk to about this book. Pop over to my Instagram @allison.the.reader, and let's talk about it. I will be waiting to compare notes on this different and thought-provoking novel.

Spring has sprung, and in honor of that, here's a photo of Dixie Meadows Hot Spring, taken by local photographer Laura Mills. Yes, we know there are different meanings of the word "spring," but we feel it's appropriate as we're also using that homonym for our lecture series, which starts Tuesday, March 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the museum.

What's Cooking in Kelli's Kitchen - Grains and Legumes

The Kelly household regularly includes animal protein as the "main ingredient" in many of our meals. However, we have started integrating more plant-based meals into our weekly menu. Plants are packed with the sorts of things that bodies need to be healthy (vitamins, minerals, phytochemicals, and antioxidants); eating more plants helps boost our immune system, helps reduce inflammation, leads to healthier digestion, and can lower our risk for cancer. Studies have found that eating a plant-based diet decreases your risk for type 2 diabetes by 30% and can lower your total cholesterol by 15-30%. While the occasional mid-rare ribeye is nice, it's a no-brainer to integrate more plant-based whole foods into our diet.

One of my favorite combinations of plants is the nutritionally bountiful duo of grains and legumes. When you combine a grain (rice, oats, barley, wheat, corn) with a legume (chickpeas, lentils, beans, peas), you form a complete protein with an ample supply of all nine essential amino acids. Make sure your plant-based dish contains whole, not refined grains. A wholegrain kernel has three parts: the bran, endosperm, and germ. The bran has a hard outer shell and contains fiber. minerals, and antioxidants. The endosperm is the middle layer of a whole grain and is mostly made of carbohydrates. The germ makes up the center of the grain and contains vitamins, minerals, protein, and plant compounds. Whole grains can be cracked, crushed, and rolled; as long as all three components of the grain are present, they are considered "whole."

Eating more plants can be fun, easy, and delicious. Here are some recipes to help you get started.

Red Curry Lentils

Ingredients

- 3 T olive oil
- 2 medium sweet potatoes, peeled and cut into 1" cubes 1 yellow onion, chopped 3 T Thai Red curry paste 3 garlic cloves, minced 1" piece of ginger, peeled and grated 1 serrano chile, seeded and minced 1 t ground turmeric 1 c red lentils, rinsed 4 c white stock (vegetable or chicken) 2 t kosher salt, plus more to taste 1 can full-fat coconut milk 1 bag baby spinach ½ lime, juiced Cilantro - for garnish

Directions

- 1. In a heavy bottomed pot, heat 2 T olive oil over medium-high heat. Add the sweet potatoes and cook, stirring occasionally, until browned all over (5-7 minutes). Transfer to a bowl and set aside.
- Add 1 T olive oil into the pot and reduce heat to medium-low. Add the onion and cook, stirring occasionally, until translucent (4-6 minutes). Add curry paste, garlic, ginger, chile, and turmeric, continue cooking for 1-2 minutes.
- 3. Add the lentils, stock, salt, and sweet potatoes to the pot and bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered for 20-25 minutes, stirring occasionally.
- 4. Add the coconut milk and simmer for another 15 minutes. Add the spinach and stir until just wilted. Turn off the heat, stir in lime juice, and season to taste with salt. Serve over brown rice garnished with cilantro.

Chickpea and Barley Stew

and cook until the paste starts to darken (2 minutes).

- 3. Add in the broth, 1 c water, the barley and 2 t salt. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to maintain a simmer. Add in saffron and simmer uncovered for about 40 minutes. Stir in chickpeas, squash, turnip, and lentils, and cook for another 20-30 minutes until the barley is tender. Season to taste and remove cinnamon stick.
- 4. Serve in bowls with a dollop of yogurt on top. Drizzle with olive oil and garnish with cilantro leaves and hot paprika.

Your Community-Owned & Operated Fallon Theatre

First, we would like to wish everyone a very Happy Easter!

And what is Easter without bunnies? We have two great movies for you this weekend. Playing both Friday, March 29, and Saturday, March 30, at 6 p.m. is the 2021 comedy adventure "Peter Rabbit 2: The Runaway." Bea, Thomas, and the rabbits have created a makeshift family, but despite his best efforts, Peter can't seem to shake his mischievous reputation. Venturing out of the garden, Peter finds himself in a world where his mischief is appreciated. However, when his family risks everything to come looking for him, Peter must figure out what kind of bunny he wants to be. Starring James Corden, Rose Byrne, and Domhnall Gleeson.

And one more movie where the star is a rabbit, playing Saturday, March 30th at 7 p.m. is the 1950 comedy fantasy "Harvey." Elwood P. Dowd is a wealthy drunk who starts having visions of a giant rabbit named Harvey. Elwood lives with his sister Veta and her daughter, and Veta worries that Elwood has gone insane. In the process of trying to have him committed, Veta admits that she occasionally sees Harvey herself. The director of the mental home, Dr. Chumley, tries to reconcile his duty to help Elwood with his own growing experiences with Harvey. Starring James Stewart, Josephine Hull, Peggy Dow, and Jesse White.
